

You can't change their past,

How Katarina ended up at the local shelter, we are not certain. We always wonder how our rescue cats become homeless. She looks like a white Turkish Angora and had signs that she had had many litters. Was she a former breeder cat that was abandoned once she was no longer needed? Purebred or not, her new adoptive family adores her and she will no longer have to worry about being homeless or unloved.

but you can give them a future.

Harper was living in a feral colony at a local townhome complex when the people that were feeding the colony realized that he was not feral at all. He was most likely one of the many unwanted cats dumped into the colony by their owners. Unaccustomed to fending for himself, Harper clearly struggled to survive outdoors - his right ear was deformed from an old untreated ear infection. Harper was so grateful to be rescued by CARE that he couldn't stop purring and giving his foster mom head-butts. He formed a bond with another cat at his foster home and they were adopted into a loving home together.

London was bottle fed and struggled to overcome an infection, but he is now thriving in foster care.

CARE is non profit 501 (c) (3) organization. We are an all-volunteer organization that fosters animals who are homeless, abused, or who will be euthanized in local shelters. 100% of your donation goes towards rescuing cats/kittens. CARE's most recent financial statement is on file with the Office of Charitable and Regulatory Programs at the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services at 800/552-9963. Please use the enclosed envelope to mail a check to CARE or visit our website at www.care-cats.org/donate to make an online donation. Ongoing monthly donations provide for rescue all year long. Thank you.

Fostering - a rewarding experience for the whole family.

CARE fosters Stephanie and her son Parker volunteered to foster four tiny four-week old orphaned kittens. Parker was excited as he had never seen such little kittens - they weighed only a pound each. He has been very hands-on in the kittens' care and loves to feed and play with them. Stephanie says she enjoys fostering because these little kittens rely on you to feed them, take care of them, and provide a loving home until they are healthy and old enough to be adopted to their forever homes. Fostering gives pets a chance to shine!
